Making a big mistake - In that specific year I made a mistake that led me to being afraid of myself. I tried hiding my identity. I hid something that defined me the most.

Getting caught by mom - My mom kind of knew that I was hiding something, so she took it to the next level to find out what I was really doing.

Recognizing myself - The day I showed my true identity to my friends and all the people I knew. They were surprised at first but eventually, they were support me. I felt like I finally set myself free.
